Events at KSG Recognized Needs of Homeless

Food and clothing drives, educational events, and sign-ups for volunteer activities were some of the activities featured in "Homelessness Awareness Week: Solutions for the 1990s" at the Kennedy School of Government last week.

Coordinated by the Public Service Interest Group (PSIG), a Kennedy School student organization, the week's activities were aimed at deepening public understanding of homelessness as well as exploring ways in which individuals and communities can help solve the problem.

"We wanted to get people acquainted with the dimensions of the problem and then give them a range of options for getting involved. We know we won't save the world with this one week, but it will have a ripple effect," said Leonard Adler, a second-year Kennedy School student who helped organize Homelessness Awareness Week.

The week's keynote event was a panel discussion held in Starr Auditorium titled "Solving an American Disgrace." The speakers were Sue Marsh, executive director of Massachusetts Coalition for the Homeless; Leslie Samuelrich, director of National Student Campaign Against Hunger and Homelessness; and Charles Royer, director of the Institute of Politics and former mayor of Seattle.

The panelists spoke about the high cost of housing in Boston, where two-bedroom apartments have now reached a median advertised rent of $944 per month.

Royer recommended that Boston follow Seattle's example in providing the homeless with housing, clothing, and job counseling. He said that the federal government should subsidize such programs, and that in the long run such subsidies would cost less than keeping the homeless in jails or shelters.

On Thursday, a second public discussion, titled "A View From Other Countries," provided an international perspective on homelessness. The speakers were Katherine Ichoya of the National Bank of Kenya, and George Deikun of the Agency for International Development.

Members of PSIG maintained an information table in the Forum area through the week with displays, free resource guides, and sign-ups for volunteer activities. On Thursday, KSG students brought in bread, meat, cheese, mayonnaise, mustard, and other ingredients to make sandwiches to be brought to local shelters.

One of the more concrete results of Homelessness Awareness Week was the piles of sweaters and coats collected as part of the week-long clothing drive. Adler said that PSIG was still counting the numerous contributions, but he estimates that there are approximately 80 bags of warm clothing to be distributed to area shelters.

Homelessness Awareness Week was cosponsored by the Community Service Clearinghouse, Creative Gourmet, Phillips Brooks House, the Taubman Center for State and Local Government, and the Wiener Center for Social Policy.

Poverty Law Journal First of Its Kind in the Nation

Students at Georgetown University Law Center have launched the nation's first law journal to focus on understanding and addressing the problem of poverty, the Georgetown Journal on Fighting Poverty. The premiere issue was published in January 1994.

"We started this journal because we wanted to use our legal education to make an impact on the pressing social problem of poverty," said Shana DeSouza, a third-year who serves as co-editor-in chief with fellow third-year Leonard Adler. DeSouza and Adler have worked with over 30 law students during the past two years to establish the journal. Georgetown faculty member Peter Edelman, a recipient of the 1993 NAPIL Outstanding Public Interest Advocate Award, served as the journal's faculty adviser prior to accepting his current position as counselor to the Secretary of the Department of Health and Human Services.

The first issue features articles written by Barbara Sard, director of Greater Boston Legal Services' Homelessness Unit, and Martha Davis, a staff attorney at the NOW Legal Defense and Education Fund. The issue also contains a memorial to former Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall and a symposium titled "Dear Mr. President: Fighting Poverty in a New Administration." The memorial was written by Georgetown professors Susan Low Bloch, Vicki Jackson, Michael Seidman and Mark Tushnet, who all served as clerks to the late justice.

The journal is unique to the law journal community in that it takes a holistic approach to examining poverty, through a focus on law, policy, practice, and voices of poor people. Thus, readers will find articles from legal scholars as well as from legal practitioners working on the front lines of the fight against poverty. To incorporate the perspectives of poor people, the journal publishes essays and poetry written by poor people and interviews conducted by staff members. In addition, the journal uses an innovative 8 1/2 X 11 format, selected to make the journal accessible to a diverse readership.

The journal's second issue will be released in April. Subscriptions are $25/year, and low-income individuals can request a reduced rate. Call (202) 662-9468 for subscription information or (202) 662-9425 for information about submitting work for the journal.

I'm hiring.

I've spent my career in conservation communications because the stories we tell don't just inform people — they help shape the future of our planet.

At the National Audubon Society, we protect birds and the places they need. With more than 800 staff and 2 million supporters, our work drives real conservation impact. We're growing our team and seeking a Senior Director of Conservation Communications who will report directly to me and help bring that work to life in powerful, strategic ways.

This is a high-impact leadership role that sits at the intersection of conservation, science, policy, and storytelling — and touches nearly every part of the organization. This person will be a strategic partner to me and other leaders across Audubon, helping translate complex conservation priorities into clear, compelling narratives that inspire action and influence change.

I'm looking for a smart communication expert who is thoughtful, deeply collaborative, and who leads with steady confidence — someone who believes, as I do, that meaningful progress happens when we work together.

If this sounds like you, or a communication pro you know, I'd love to connect. And if you're willing to share this opportunity with your network, I'd truly appreciate it.

The Hidden Job Market

- Employers may not always invest the time and expense to publicize a job via a job board.
- This could be due to staff capacity, financial considerations, etc.
- We therefore need to include strategies in our job search toolbox to locate some of these “hidden green jobs.”

1. Go Direct

- Some organizations may not utilize job boards, but post job opportunities on their website.
- To access these opportunities job seekers should identify organizations they would be interested in working for and review the Jobs or Careers section of their website for potential jobs.

Our team is a quickly growing group of committed researchers, engineers, policy experts, and business leaders working together to build beneficial AI systems.

Anthropic is seeking a strategic and impact-driven Social Impact Partnerships Lead to expand the reach of our AI solutions to those who can benefit most. In this role, you'll forge partnerships with diverse stakeholders worldwide to deliver impactful AI applications and develop strategies that maximize positive impact across healthcare, education, entrepreneurship, and beyond.

Responsibilities:

- Create and drive a vision for how AI can be deployed both domestically and across the globe to improve well-being, helping build a team and identifying the right partners, tools, and distribution to maximize impact

- Engage with underserved communities and local organizations to co-develop AI services tailored to specific local needs
- Create robust evaluation frameworks for potential place-based and distribution partnerships

Agenda

- Part 1: Foundations
- Part 2: Exploring & Searching
- Part 3: The Entrepreneurial Edge
- A Sustainability of the Self

Your Health & Well-Being Matters

- The world needs more care, but so do each of us.
- The job & internship search – and working on issues such as climate – can be challenging.
- The most valuable resource for your job search success is you.
- Imagine integrating a prioritization of your health & well-being into your job search process (and career).
- For example, instead of viewing investments in health & well-being as taking away time from the job search, it can be viewed as a helpful part of its success.

A Sustainability of the Self

- Health and well-being includes many elements (such as physical, mental, emotional, financial) and can mean something different for each of us.
- Regardless of what being healthy looks like for you, the important thing is to prioritize it.
- Make time to identify things you can do for your health & well-being, then put them into practice.
- You'll see benefits in the job search, and collectively, we can help create a healthier planet.

Thank You!
